USCGC Vigilant's crew returns home following 28-day Florida Straits patrol

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. – The crew of the USCGC Vigilant (WMEC 617) returned to their home port in Cape Canaveral Saturday following a 28-day patrol in the Florida Straits.

Guard District's area of responsibility, Vigilant's crew conducted maritime safety and security missions while working to detect, deter and intercept unsafe and illegal migrant ventures bound for the United States.

During the patrol, Vigilant assisted with the interdiction of a grossly overloaded vessel with 311 Haitian migrants on board. The crew provided migrants with food, water, shelter and medical aid until the migrants were repatriated back to their country of origin.

"This interdiction was a great example of the Department of Homeland Security's outstanding interagency coordination and cooperation," said Cmdr. Jay Guyer, Vigilant's commanding officer. "I'm extremely proud of Vigilant's crew in how they execute this dynamic and difficult mission with professionalism and humanity."

Vigilant is a 210-foot Reliance-class medium endurance cutter. The cutter's primary missions are counter drug operations, migrant interdiction, enforcement of federal fishery laws and search and rescue in support of U.S. Coast Guard operations throughout the Western Hemisphere.
